Many Early Gains of 1 to 10 Points Cut Down or Wiped Out—List of 1 to 5 Point Declines.

SHARP BREAK IN WHEAT A FACTOR
Pools Quick to Lighten Commitments When Pressure Felt—Radio a Strong Feature.

NEW YORK Stock market turned weak today after several unsuccessful attempts had been made to rally the general market by working up a selected assembly of communications and financial issues and speculations. Many of the early gains of 1 to 10 points were cut down or wiped out, and a rather long list of issues sold 1 to 5 points below yesterday's final quotations. The reaction could not be attributed to any specific development in the day's news, although sharp break in wheat prices undoubtedly was an unsettling influence. Several commission houses took the attitude that the recent rally had discounted all the good in sight, and that the market was entitled to a breathing spell until the course of spring business more clearly defined.

For those who apparently have been responsible for much of the recent activity, were quick to lighten their commitments when aggressive selling pressure was directed against their favorites. Public participation was again on a small scale in all but a few high grade investment issues.

Call Money Steady.
Call money held steady at 4½ per cent all day, but the supply funds was so plentiful that the market was shaded to 4½ per cent in the outside market. The time money market was quiet with rates quoted.

Foreign exchange rates showed little change, with indications of our buying support the same of European currencies. Sterling held around the year's low of $1.85 15-16, established yesterday, but French francs surged to $1.21 cents to a new low. The British dollar showed further movement.

Age reported that "steel section has made a further gain but has lost the momentum that caused it to rise so rapidly in January." Big Iron and steel prices held steady. Bullish sentiment in the market met a chill somewhat by the failure of freight car loadings to continue below the levels of the corresponding period a year ago and of a technical reason.

U. S. Steel Is Lower.
American Telephone closed unnoted at 236 after having advanced a new high for the year at 240. Gulf States Steel dropped to 76½, up 3½; Martin Marietta from 173½ to 170, and U. S. Steel from 183½ to 183¾. Of 2½ L Case dropped 5½ points; Monson Co. lost 2½ points; and Consolidated Gas, United States, International Telephone, International Water, National Cash Register, Electric and Electric Automobile, and the many issues in a point or two.

The military authorities told newspaper men the prisoners had been handed over to the Attorney-General, but shortly afterward the latter denied he had received them. Since the shooting, the military authorities have been in charge of the investigation, and the public has been waiting for the prisoners to be turned over to the civil authorities for judicial proceedings. Apparently whoever was charged with delivering the prisoners to the civil authorities failed to do so. It is thought they are still in the military prison.

HELIUM FOUND IN COLORADO
Discovery Announced by Geologist of Utah University.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Discoveries in Southeastern Colorado of a supply of helium gas said to be the richest in existence was announced today by Prof. P. J. Hinsel, geologist of the University of Utah, before the petroleum division of the annual meeting of mineral and metallurgical engineers.

Discovery of the helium, a non-inflammable gas used in dirigibles, was an accidental result of oil drilling operations southeast of Pueblo, Prof. Hinsel said in his discussion of petroleum development in the Rocky Mountain region during 1929. Helium content of the well amounts to $10,000 cubic feet per day, approximately 7 per cent of the total gas volume of the well, contrasting with the usual 1 or 2 per cent he stated.

By the Associated Press.

FT. WORTH, Tex., Feb. 19.—While an orchestra in the lobby played dance music and sandwiches were served to all visitors, tellers in the First National Bank of Fort Worth last night paid off demands for cash in checking or savings accounts.

The heavy withdrawal started at 2 p. m. A statement was issued early last night by officers of the bank, which is one of the oldest and said to be one of the strongest in the Southwest, showing the bank was in the best condition of its history, and did not owe a cent in the world to anyone or any bank. Withdrawals had practically ceased by 4 p. m.

Judge George E. Hooley of the Tarrant County Court said the Tarrant County Grand Jury would be asked to investigate the run and fix the responsibility for the rumor thought to have caused it. Many persons who withdrew their money yesterday took it back to the bank today. One deposit of $160,000 was made.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 19.—Former President Calvin Coolidge threw away a half-smoked cigar here yesterday and a crowd of spectators started a fight for the butt.

Reporters assigned to cover the movements of Coolidge said they saw hands stepped on, some kicks administered and considerable shoving in the melee.

A woman who refused to give her name won the stub. She put it in her handbag and hurried away.

Coolidge, who, with Mrs. Coolidge, is visiting Southern California, started his second day here by visiting the local offices of the New York Life Insurance Co. or which he is a director. He walked to the offices. He threw his cigar away as he was walking back to his hotel from the insurance company office.

PETITIONER RAKES
THOMAS P. CONVEY

"Direct Menace to Social and Political Welfare of Community"—His Many Rows Aired.

By PAUL V. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 19.—Oscar Rowe, resort operator and Republican precinct boss in Kansas City, whose theory that the way to carry his program was to get opposition voters drunk and keep them away from the polls was effectively carried out in the last general election, must serve a five-year sentence in the penitentiary.

Division No. 2 of the Missouri Supreme Court today affirmed Rowe's conviction of giving away whisky in violation of the State dry law. The opinion describes what Rowe's tactics of demoralizing Democratic voting strength is his precept.

The evidence was that Rowe obtained 45 gallons of whisky from a police garage the evening before the presidential election on last Nov. 6 sent out runners to invite Democratic voters "wearing Smith buttons" to visit his combination saloon, gambling house, restaurant and resort for free drinks and succeeded in getting approximately 200 drunks.

The police aided in the plan, according to the summary of the evidence, by gathering up 200 drunken men and placing them in the police holdover, without charges, and holding them until after the polls closed on election day.

 Police Said to Have Helped.

There was other evidence that four police detectives aided in transporting the whisky to Rowe's saloon, and that police sent pistols and shotgun to those who stood off attempts of friends of the drunken men to rescue them from Rowe's power.

Other testimony was to the effect that Rowe planned his coup during the election, spreading the election and had announced he was going to get the "Al Smith voters drunk" at election time.

Associates of Rowe testified against him at his trial. One witness said Rowe caused one of his henchmen to shoot the witness and beat him because he had refused to testify for Rowe instead of for the prosecution. The witness testified that the henchman had been purchased to be placed in the whisky and that as fast as the visitors became drunk, they were removed to the basement of Rowe's saloon. One witness asserted one of Rowe's henchmen was stationed in the basement with a tin cup to pour more whisky down the throats of men who appeared to be sobering up.

Thus, it was testified that when visitors came to the bar, the patrol wagons called and the police holdovers were taken to the police holdover to cancel its radio advertising over KWK. They were released at 4:30 p. m.

BEST OFFERS ALMOST.

On the whole, it was a decided victory for the defense, which Convey had been able to win.

The defense contended the provision of the bone dry law making it an offense to give away liquor did not apply to a "merely act of courtesy or hospitality."

The act of defendant was neither a social act nor an act of courtesy or hospitality," said Commissioner Walker. W. A. Davis, who wrote the opinion, "It was an unfeeling, wicked and harmful act. It was designed to betray and deprive men of their rights. Consequently the action comprehends the act of the defendant."

Presiding Judge David E. Blair and Judge J. T. White concurred in the opinion. Judge Walker was absent because of illness.

W. H. Stayton at House Hearing Says One Congress Attempted to Dictate Policy of All Others.

HE SUBMITS PLAN FOR LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Wickersham Allied With Church Lobby, Asserts H. B. Joy — Wonders if Hoover Knew It.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.— Hearings on resolutions proposing repeal of the eighteenth amendment and for a national referendum on the amendment were resumed by the House Judiciary Committee today before the board that packed all corners of the room with many persons standing.

Stayton First Witness.

The first witness, William H. Stayton, chairman of the Board of Directors of the association against the prohibition amendment, was introduced by Representative Linnithum, [Dem.], Maryland, chairman of the House wet bloc.

Stayton recommended return to the states of the powers of local option and expressed a belief that each State could deal with its own local liquor situation if the eighteenth amendment was repealed.

Stayton said he testified as a representative of the Board of Directors, explaining the board was composed of 225 members engaged in nearly every kind of business. He asserted it had conducted an exhaustive investigation into conditions resulting from prohibition and had reached a conclusion "that all was not well under national prohibition laws."

"To correct this situation," Stayton continued, "the directors of this association beg leave to recommend to the committee a favorable report upon one of the resolutions providing for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment bringing the matter more closely back to the people."

"In this report we do not want to take from the Federal Government any of its old powers. It should be left with the full power to deal with importations, exports, interstate transportation and taxation."

Time for States to Act.

"Nor do we believe that a repeal of the amendment ought to go into effect instantly. We think the states should be given sufficient time to have revision of their legislatures, at which suitable local regulatory liquor laws may be adopted."

"We believe, further, that where a State adopts a restrictive law or a prohibition law, she should have from the Federal Government the benefit of such legislation as the Webb-Kenyon and the Reed bond dry act, so that the improper transportation of intoxicants into a state, where a Federal crime, and the process may run throughout the country to produce the witnesses which the state herself might not have the power to prosecute."

Stayton testified the association started with these two assumptions: "First, that the liquor traffic had resulted in great grave evil, and that all good citizens ought to acknowledge that evil and endeavor to lessen it. Second, that we ought to recognize the sincerity of the great body of the people who proposed and brought about national prohibition."

Not a Wicked Conspiracy.

"While it is readily conceivable, he went on, 'that even a great number of people may err in their judgment, it is utterly inconceivable to us that the great body of so-called 'dry's,' including millions of good men and women, should have entered into anything like a wicked conspiracy or should have sought to insure their country's salvation.'

The witness continued, "taking all wisdom unto itself," said, in effect, four things "which have changed our lives and the current of our history, namely:

"To the people of the whole United States it said, 'You are unworthy; you can never again be trusted; you must be muzzled.'

"It said to every state: 'You are an unworthy state; we take from you the powers which your forefathers enjoyed; henceforth you are not free.'

"To the unborn generations for all time it said: 'We condemn you in advance as being low, unworthy, and of vile habits; we take from you the right to regulate your lives because we foresee that you will be a low people.'

Includes Present Congress.

"It said to all future Congresses (including this one in which you gentlemen now sit), 'we predict that you will be unworthy of the power of legislating, and we therefore take that power from you, just as we have taken it from the people and from the states. We, the Congress, know what will be good for the people for all time, and we take from all future Congresses the right to govern as their consciences and their wisdom may determine.'

determine. They must do as we wish."

Stayton asserted it became apparent soon after the enactment of prohibition that its results were satisfactory neither to the wets nor to the drys.

Significant of this, he added, was that the Anti-Saloon League ceased its publication of statistics for arrests for drunkenness and total arrests, a practice it had maintained for 20 years, after its annual report of 1922.

The Anti-Saloon League annual report for 1923, Stayton said, was 100,000 arrests for drunkenness. It increased, he continued, until in 1925 it aggregated 482,000. The total arrests for all causes shown in the league report, he said, increased during 1925 to 1,300,000 in 1926.

The Stayton said the people had lost respect for the Government because of the dry law and because it had lost its efficiency.

He charged that the Government had employed thugs to enforce the dry laws and that it was defending murderers for the same reason.

No Government, he said, could continue to hold the respect of the people when it used such tactics.

Power of Congress Curbed.

The eighteenth amendment, Stayton testified, had curbed the power of Congress to enact legislation.

He continued that before its passage, Congress had directed the greatest corporation in the world, the allied Protestant church lobby, to the Congress and its strong influence on our Government. We have confidence that the backbone of this lobby will be broken and that our standards will help to find our way back to freedom and temperament."

The committee ruled out of order references to the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission and its chairman, G. W. Wickersham.

The decision was announced by Chairman Graham while Joy was reading his statement. Representatives La Guardia and Dyer, wets, asserted statements by both Wickersham and the commission were not within the province of the hearings.

The committee voted to sustain the national law enforcement commission.

Referring to the body's plan for reform, Stayton said: "The commission is speeded up law enforcement. Stayton asserted it should adopt the slogan of 'two felons for every family' after the manner of other organizations that urged 'two automobiles for every family.'

Does Not Favor Saloon.

Michener asked if the association favored the return of the legalized saloon. Stayton answered in the negative. Contingent, Michener then asked if the eighteenth amendment had not done away with saloons, and Stayton said: "No. There are three now where one blade grew before."

Grayson M. P. Murphy of New York, a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, was next to testify. He said the eighteenth amendment was contrary to the spirit of the Constitution. Murphy, who was Adjutant General of the Red Cross during the World War, said he first thought that prohibition would be a success, but the unrepresented speaker was far worse than the old saloon.

Business Men and Dry Law.

Murphy, who is a director of several large business corporations in New York City, said that he did not know a leading financier, banker, industrial or manufacturer who did not break the dry laws.

"Well," quipped Michener, a smugly dry, "how about Henry Ford?"

"I do not know him," the witness replied amid gales of laughter. "Protestant Church Lobby."

What he described as the "Protestant Church Lobby" was assailed by the next witness, Henry B. Joy, of Detroit, former president of the Packard Motor Car Co., who charged Chairman Wickersham of the enforcement commission with "preconceived bias."

Joy said he hoped the committee might find it "worthwhile to report out such a bill" as will be in accordance with the opinions expressed by ex-President Taft 12 years ago, namely, that the eighteenth amendment be repealed, and the control of alcoholic beverages be left to the individual states.

"I shudder at the thought," Joy continued, "of the consequences in case the recommendations of Mr. Wickersham should be enacted into law."

The witness told the committee he was a Protestant. "A Presbyterian," he said, "but I have to express my sincere regret at the conditions which exist beyond the possibility of contradiction."

Hoffman's brother today said he had received no threats from his son, and so far as he could be informed, Murphy had not been approached.

Previously, "Mulepups" Fritz and Harry King, East Side gamblers, were reported to have been kidnapped and forced to pay ransom of $35,000 and $38,000, respectively. The reports were verified by their associates, although they agreed to make what police considered "diplomatic denials."

Hoffman's brother today said he had received no threats from his son, and so far as he could be informed, Murphy had not been approached.

The witness told the committee he was a Protestant. "A Presbyterian," he said, "but I have to express my sincere regret at the conditions which exist beyond the possibility of contradiction."

The Protestant church lobby seems welcome in Washington possibly because of its influence, many Congressmen are helped to gain election," Joy continued. "We even have two Congressmen from Michigan, the Hon. Louis C. Cranston and the Hon. Grant M. Hudson, elected by that influence, who have

CHILDREN DISPLAY FAMILIARITY WITH PLANES AT SHOW

Grownups Also Evince Great Interest, 72 Out of 225 in One Group Having Had Flights.

That the public gradually is becoming air-educated is demonstrated daily by the crowds attending the International Aircraft Show at The Arena, which started its fifth day today.

Salemen in charge of the exhibits report that the crowds, particularly the younger generation, display a surprising knowledge of aircraft and aeronautical terms.

"Course, there are still a large number of people who don't know what a ship is for," one salesman explained. "But you can't fool the kids, many of whom are familiar with the latest improvements."

A check of 225 persons, who examined one of the large transport models, disclosed that 73 of the group had made one or more flights. It was further disclosed that most of the non-flyers were not averse to taking an air ride.

The expedition continues to attract large crowds. Attendance yesterday was about 13,000 persons. On the three previous days approximately 54,000 persons viewed the exhibits.

Joint Banquet Tonight.

Additional persons prominent in aeronautics arrived to take part in the closing sessions of the various trade meetings, or just to "talk shop." Lady Mary Heath, English woman flyer, and Herbert Hoover Jr., son of President Hoover, were among the arrivals last night.

Hoover, radio expert for Western Air Express, is a speaker at tomorrow's session of the Society of Automotive Engineers. Maj. Clarence M. Young, commanding secretary of the Experimental Aircraft Association in charge of aeronautics, will arrive this afternoon.

Lady Heath, who was seriously injured in an airplane accident at the National Air Races in Cleveland last August, will make her first flight since the crash at Lambert-St. Louis Field during the afternoon. She has ridden in airplanes since the accident, but has not handled the controls.

The feature of today's program will be the joint banquet of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce and the Society of Automotive Engineers at Hotel Jefferson yesterday afternoon, and will be held in the same room.

Convey, radio expert for Western Air Express, will speak on "Defects of Commercial Airplanes."

Most of the other records were packed almost as carefully.

and new developments in radio communication in transport operations also were discussed.

Commissioner Sykes and others presented manifested some of the vigorous nature of radio competition in the St. Louis field.

MacLean said how Convey had obtained a denial that he asked Tevis to cut the wire, whereupon Tevis sued Convey for false arrest. Commissioner Sykes and others present manifested some of the vigorous nature of radio competition in the St. Louis field.

William A. Smith of Kansas City, chairman of the Missouri State Automobile Association, said he would permit attorneys to cross-examine witnesses during the hearings without continuing the proceedings.

He would permit the committee to subpoena witnesses to appear before the committee later to discuss the matter.

HERBERT HOOVER JR. PRAISES INTERNATIONAL AIR EXPOSITION

Herbert Hoover Jr., who has been employed as radio and communications specialist for the Western Air Express, for the past year, is in St. Louis to address a meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers at Hotel Jefferson tomorrow at 9:30 a. m.

The elder son of the President arrived in St. Louis yesterday by train from Kansas City after having traveled from Los Angeles in one of the passenger planes of the line for which he works. He expects to leave St. Louis tomorrow immediately after the meeting.

"As air shows go, I think St. Louis' is one of the best I've ever seen," Hoover said.

Young Hoover, a graduate of Leland Stanford University, formerly worked for the Engineering Foundation for Aviation Promotion. He has specialized in radio and communications for radio and communications for the Army. He is now summing up an experimental short-wave research radio station in the Pacific Coast district. He holds a First Lieutenant's commission in the Reserve Air Corps of the Army.

He made any effort to attract publicity, and explained that he had nothing which contained any of the facts.

SENATE RAISES TARIFF ON MANY FARM PRODUCTS

Eastern Democrats Supply
Only Opposition to Increase in Rates on Cheese,
Green Peas, Dried Beans.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—A plea that "wise research" be applied to agriculture tariff increase proposals in order to prevent unfair burdens on consumers, was made in the Senate today by Senator Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, as debate continues on farm rates.

"We ought at least inquire who would benefit by these increases and who are to be penalized," he asserted, adding that there were several New England industries, including shoes, still on a free trade basis.

An increase in the tariff on dates in packages of 10 pounds or less was voted. The rate approved was 7½ cents a pound as compared with 25 per cent now in effect.

Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, contended such a raise would not result in increased prices.

The increase, approved 46 to 28, was proposed by Senator Hayden (Dem.), Arizona, who said it was intended to encourage the packing of dates in this country under sanitary conditions. Hayden contend- ed while the United States produces only about 1,000,000 pounds of dates and consumes about 50,000,000 pounds, imported dates in containers frequently were infested with vermin.

Vigorous condemnation of the "so-called farm organizations and their representatives" was voiced by Senator Blaine (Rep.), Wisconsin, in asking an increase in the duty on cheese.

"I have no faith in the so-called farmer representatives," Blaine told the Senate. "If I did I would be asking only 40 per cent ad valorem instead of 42 per cent. I threatened to expose their combination. They are coveting down here with the packers and the processors. I don't trust these so-called farm organizations."

Approval was given a higher tariff on cheese and cheese substitutes, an amendment by Blaine to make the rate 8 cents a pound but not less than 42 per cent, as against the current rate not less than 25 per cent in the bill being adopted without a roll call.

Approval also was given a proposal by Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York, to levy a rate of 8 cents a pound on cheese made of sheep's milk and known as Romano cheese.

A duty of 8 cents a pound on canned oysters, now on the free list, was approved on motion of Senator Goldsborough (Rep.), Maryland.

Senator Fletcher (Dem.), Florida, succeeded in having approved two amendments to levy duties of 15 cents a pound on alligator peers and mangos, now on the free list.

Farm Duties Increased.

With only an occasional mild protest from Eastern Democrats, increases in duties on green peas, dried beans, frozen halibut, sauerkraut, raw chicory and bent grass seed, were approved.

An amendment by Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, increasing the duty on raw chicory from 1½ cents a pound to 2 cents was approved without a roll call.

Senator Trammell (Dem.), Florida, succeeded with an amendment to increase the duty on pineapples from 25½ to 50 cents a crate.

After increasing the tariff on zinc and refusing to levy an import tax on silver, now on the free list, the Senate returned yesterday to the agricultural schedule, and voted increases in duties on live cattle above those carried in the Hawley-Smoot measure.

North and Southern Democrats clashed over proposed higher cattle levies but the final roll call showed an overwhelming agreement of both parties for higher protection on farm products. The vote was 72 to 4 for the increases, those in opposition being Senators Copeland and Wagner, New York; Harris, Georgia, and Walsh, Massachusetts, all Democrats.

Senator Connally (Dem.), Texas, sponsored the new cattle rates, which approved a new 2½ cents a pound on cattle weighing under 700 pounds and 2 cents a pound for those weighing 700 pounds and over. Present duties are 1½ cents on cattle weighing under 1050 pounds and 2 cents on those weighing 1050 pounds and over. The House and Senate Finance Committee bills had made the dividing line 800 pounds and raised existing levies one-half cent.

Opposition came in the taking up of the farm schedule. The National Grange appealed for retention of the export debenture provision in the bill.

Stephen Gilmore Gets Divorce.
Stephen H. Gilmore, 2187 South Grand boulevard, sales manager for a prominent dry goods company, obtained a divorce today from Mrs. Victoria Gilmore, 5015 South Grand boulevard, on grounds of general indignities. Mrs. Gilmore did not contest. The court approved a stipulation by which she is to receive $2000 a gross alimony and $25 a month for the support of their 8-month-old son. They were married April 28, 1923, and separated a year ago.

TEN MEN KILLED IN EXPLOSION OF NAPHTHA; 50 HURT

Alcohol Plant of Standard Oil Refinery Near Elizabeth, N. J., Wrecked by Blast and Fire.

By the Associated Press.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Feb. 19.—Ten men were killed and 50 more injured in a naptha explosion yesterday at the Bayway refinery of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. Nearly 30 of the injured are in a serious condition, with little hope for their recovery. Surgeons said many of those who survive their burns would lose their sight.

The dead: William S. Duffy, Howard A. Holliday and Clarence Croft, Bayonne; George Robertson, Roselle; Arthur Croft, Union, and Donald Biron; William V. Clegg, Joseph Laskasiewicz, John Lubas and John Sullivan, Elizabeth.

The explosion occurred at 1:55 p. m. in the alcohol plant of the refinery. J. Raymond Carrington, general manager, said it was caused by the breaking of a gas line. Survivors said the pipe which broke was a high pressure naptha line and that fumes from it were ignited by portable furnaces used by workers constructing a new building near the alcohol plant.

Workers employed in the alcohol plant rushed out, then clothing afire, many groping their way. They were blinded by the fire. They left four of their fellow workers dead in the plant. Their bodies were recovered after the fire had been extinguished. The other seven died after being taken to hospitals.

APPROVES NORTH BROADWAY TRACK ON SIDE OF STREET

Committee of Aldermen Acts After Opposition to Plan Is Withdrawn.

Street car tracks on North Broadway between Morris and Switzer avenues will remain on the west side of the roadway, the Aldermanic Streets Committee concluded today in approving ordinances for the widening of that section of Broadway from 60 to 66 feet.

The ordinances were approved after Alderman Kuhn of the First Ward announced that the neighborhood opposition to the tracks on the side had been withdrawn because of the Public Service Co.'s threat to ask the Public Service Commission for permission to substitute motor buses north of Taylor avenue if it was ordered to place its tracks in the center of the street.

C. R. PILSBURY DIES AFTER OPERATION IN PHILADELPHIA

Cecil R. Pillsbury, assistant treasurer of the General Steel Casting Corporation at Granite City, died today in a Philadelphia hospital following an operation for acute appendicitis. He became ill last Thursday while in Philadelphia on company business.

Mr. Pillsbury, who was 52 years old, went to work for the Commonwealth Steel Co. 16 years ago as a checker at $2 a day, advancing to the office of treasurer, which he held when Commonwealth was absorbed by General Steel Castings Corporation several months ago.

He is survived by his widow and one son, Richard, 19 years old, with whom he lived at Alton.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

DRIES DRY AMENDMENT TO BE SUBMITTED TO CONVENTIONS

Former Missouri Senator Proposes to Delegate Liquor Law Powers to Congress Generally.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—George H. Williams of St. Louis, former Senator from Missouri, today advocated an amendment to the Federal Constitution to permit state governments to submit to state conventions rather than state legislatures, delegating to Congress generally the power to enact laws regulating the manufacture, sale and transportation of intoxicating liquors.

Williams is here to appear before the House Judiciary Committee hearings on proposals to repeal or modify national prohibition legislation. Williams said he came merely as an "observer and a lawyer."

Under the proposed amendment, Williams said, Congress would be permitted to decide how far it could go in regulating the liquor business, or to not regulate it at all. His main argument of power in making known to him their refusal to abide by the Eighteenth amendment had told him that their consent had not been sought or given to prohibition, as ratification of the amendment had been made by state legislatures.

In elaborating his plan to submit the proposed amendment to state conventions instead of state legislatures, Williams said, "If government functions at all, it affects the individual citizen. To determine whether prohibition is effective we should limit the authority to those whom the Eighteenth amendment is intended to affect. The amendment was adopted to call the sinners, not the righteous, to repentance. On that test it has been a failure in St. Louis and St. Louis County."

FLYER INJURED IN CRASH

CAIRO, Ill., Feb. 19.—Archie Steiger, 28 years old, a pilot for the Boyer Aircraft Co. of Siketson, Mo., was seriously injured shortly before noon today when his plane went into a spin 1500 feet above the Cairo airport and crashed. He was taken to a hospital.

Steiger, who has a wife at Siketson, was leaving the Cairo field to return home when the accident occurred.

a little Resinol Ointment and it clears it right up."

Many women whose complexions you admire are using just this treatment. They find that Resinol Soap not only helps to overcome pimples, blackheads, oiliness, etc., but its daily use tends to prevent these conditions. Its clean tonic odor is delightful and its action is so gentle it is agreeable to the most sensitive skins.

They use Resinol Ointment too because it so quickly heals those minor skin irritations which everyone has sometimes, and they find it a soothing dressing for burns, sore corns, chafing, blisters, etc. All droppable.

Has the laxative in your home
a family doctor's approval?

MOST of us value our health too much to purposely neglect ourselves when we are warned of constipation by unpleasant breath, fogginess, biliousness, a headache, lack of appetite, or that weak, helpless feeling. The continuation of trouble is more often due to the things we do rather than the things we leave undone.

Some things people do to cleanse the system really weakens it. Only a doctor knows what things will cleanse the system without harm. That's why the laxative in your home should have a family doctor's approval.

A wonderful product now known to millions of people is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepson. A doctor's prescription to produce elimination. It never varies from the original prescription which Dr. Caldwell wrote thousands of times in his many years of practice at Monticello, Illinois. He proved it safe and reliable for women and children; thoroughly effective for the most robust men. He showed it actually corrects constipation. It is made from fresh herbs and other pure ingredients.

Since Dr. Caldwell first permitted his prescription to be put up in bottles and sold through drug stores, it has increased steadily in popularity until today it is the largest selling laxative in the world!

JURY DISAGREES IN SUIT AGAINST MISS RAMBEAU

No Defense Offered in $100,- 000 Allegation Action by Mrs. Mabel Manton.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Despite the fact that no defense had been offered, a jury today reported disagreement in a $100,000 allegation suit by Mrs. Mabel Manton, divorced wife of William Marion actor against Marjorie Rambeau.

Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck ordered the case to trial yesterday, although Miss Rambeau's attorney said she was in Los Angeles without sufficient funds to come to New York and unable to leave for the time being anyway because of the serious illness of her mother.

Testimony chiefly concerned a raid made by Mrs. Manton on a hotel room, where the complainant said she found her husband in Miss Rambeau's company.

The jury deliberated half an hour and then wrote out a scaled report of disagreement. Justice Schmuck today ordered the case back for retrial.

Mrs. Manton testified she and Manton were married in Glasgow in 1917 and that they had two children. In 1925 she joined her husband in the United States and although they were poor frequently paid out of work, they were happy. In January, 1925, her husband met Miss Rambeau, she said, when they played together in "The Valley of Content."

Mrs. Manton said her husband then went to Bethlehem, Pa., to become Miss Rambeau's stage manager, and that when they returned he told her that to continue with his job he would have to stay in the same hotel with Miss Rambeau because "stars are temperamental and want you on the spot." When she objected he took a room at the Remington, but continued to stay at the Endicott.

It was not, however, until she found in her husband's room a key to Miss Rambeau's suite and a telegram that she became suspicious.

Mrs. Manton then described the trial of Aug. 25, 1925, in which the actress and her husband were found together.

It was this raid which figured in the first suit for alienation of affections. At that time Mr. and Mrs. Manton were reconciled while the jury was out, and the case was dismissed. Later, however, Mrs.
Manton brought suit for divorce charging she had been tricked, and that her husband had not lived up to his agreement to pay her $20 a week. She won the divorce action in which the actress again was found together.

CHARGES PADDING
OF INVESTMENT
BY POWER FIRMS

Accountant King Testifies
He Barred Byllesby Co.'s
Attempt to So Classify Lobby Fees.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Describing to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today the controversy between officials of the Federal Power Commission which has seriously hampered the commission's important accounting work, William V. King, chief accountant, said, "the trouble between F. E. Bonner, the executive secretary, and myself is that our views are very different. He seems to be more in sympathy with the power interests than I, and seems to be neglecting the interests of the public of the United States."

King, who has been with the Power Commission almost since its establishment in 1920, gave numerous specific instances in which the privately owned electric power interests, seeking or having Government licenses for exploiting Federal water-power sites, have tried to pad their capital investment accounts.

In the event of recapture of these power plants by the Government at the expiration of the license, the Government, he said, would have to pay cash for these watered investments.

Commission Selsdon Meets.

The Interstate Commerce Committee, of which Senator Couzens (Rep.), Michigan, is chairman, is considering legislation for the establishment of a permanent power commission. The present commission is composed of the Secretaries of War, Interior and Agriculture. King testified that since the commission's establishment, the Secretary commissioners have met an average of 11 times a year, for an average length of 10 hours. In other words, the year average for the meetings was only five and a half hours. All the Secretaries have recommended the establishment of a permanent commission.

Commenting on the fact that several years usually elapsed between the time an application for a license was filed and the time a license was finally granted, Chairman Couzens said: "This is the rottenest exhibition of government I have ever heard of."

King and Charles A. Russell, solicitor of the commission, are definitely aligned in the controversy against Bonner, and Maj. M. C. Tyler, chief engineer. Russell testified yesterday and Bonner has been called for tomorrow. Chairman Couzens requested Russell and King to be present when Bonner testifies.

Lobby Fees "Investment." King today gave further details of a lobby expenditure by the Byllesby Co. of Chicago disclosed yesterday by Russell. The Byllesby Co., King declared, sought to include in the capital investment accounts of four of its subsidiaries more than $160,000 spent in Washington for lobbying against the 1920 water power act.

King declared that the commission's accounting work was made extremely difficult by the refusal of the power companies to open their books to the commission accountants.

Books Withheld.

"Doesn't the commission have power to obtain these books by mandamus procedure?" asked Senator Hastings of Delaware.

When King said he was not familiar with legal procedure, Chairman Couzens asked Russell, who was sitting near King, to answer the question.

"We have ample authority to proceed," Russell said, "but Bonner told me not to interfere in these court matters and said I was not to do anything about securing the books."

Report Suppressed.

The committee showed considerable interest, but did not develop the facts concerning the suppression in 1925 of a report written by G. C. Merrill, then executive secretary of the commission, to the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, setting forth specific instances in which the utility companies had sought to inflate their capital accounts in prelenging accounts and had refused to open their books to the commission accountants.

Yost said Russell had told him that this report had been withdrawn and a general report substituted at the request of "certain power companies." He said that he could not reveal the names of the companies making the request.

At the suggestion of Senator Brookhart of Iowa both reports were given to William Green, counsel for the committee, with instructions to make a digest and a report for the committee.

Definite Action Held Up.

In a formal statement King declared that after nine years the commission had failed to reach a decision on the net investment and accounting issues. The last thing the privately owned utility interests wanted, he asserted, was a definite decision on these questions.

GARBAGE INJUNCTION SUIT DEFENSE OPENS

Brooks Says He Heard No Complaints of Odors When He Approved Contract.

Trial of the injunction suit to restrain the city and Hog Haven Farm Inc. from carrying out a contract for the disposal of garbage on the East Side farm, opposite Sidney street, continued in Circuit Judge Pearcey's court today with defense testimony by city officials and representatives of the farm.

E. R. Kinsey, president of the Board of Public Service, testified that the contract had been let to the lowest bidder in accordance with the law and that he had inspected Hog Haven and found it "as sanitary as could be expected."

Such farms can be operated without being a nuisance, he said, and in the case of Hog Haven, the city is protected by a clause in its contract which provides for cancellation if the farm proves to be a nuisance. Kinsey said he told Samuel P. Elliott, president of the hog company, that "he would have the city on his neck if it was a nuisance."

Kinsey said he lived on the South Side at 6211 Alabama avenue and had noticed no odors from the farm. Every garbage contract made by the city during the past 20 years, he said, had caused criticism, complaints or injunctions.

Edward W. Forstel, counsel for the complainants, asked Kinsey to state the effect of odors on people. "I think it is largely psychological," Kinsey responded. "It depends on what one thinks after he smells."

Asked what the city would do if the injunction were granted, Kinsey said he had no solution to offer. "I suppose we would be at the mercy of Mr. Rea," he remarked, referring to Charles L. Rea, whose five-year contract for garbage disposal expires today.

After two days of complaints from South Side residents and business men, plaintiffs in the contested case today, in support of a decision, which was overruled. Attorney Fred L. English argued that the city's obligation was only to deliver garbage at the foot of Chouteau avenue and that it was the farm's responsibility to see that no nuisance was created.

Late witness included Dr. R. S. Pitt, president of the Chippewa Trust Co. and former Coroner, who added his voice to the charges that noxious odors and hordes of insects drifted across the river from the hog farm down to his home. He recalled that for six years, from 1894 to 1900, South Side citizens waged a campaign against a "stink factory" at the foot of Gasconade street.

Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks testified that he had heard no complaints when he approved the garbage contract. He said he did not know how the city would dispose of its garbage if the injunction were issued, inasmuch as the new contract was to become effective tomorrow.

Forstel told the Court that Rea was given a year to dispose of the garbage until a new arrangement could be made. Rea charged 74 cents a ton for hauling garbage from Chouteau avenue to an island 50 miles downstream. The city expects to save about $28,000 a year by paying Hog Haven Farm 34¢ cents a ton for the haul from Chouteau avenue to Hog Haven, two miles away.

Attorney Forstel told the Court, in argument on the demurrer, that his interest in the case was as a resident of South St. Louis and in behalf of South Side residents. He told reporters that he had no interest in any competition garbage contract.

TO BEGIN BUILDING KNOX
50,000-WATT PLANT MONDAY

Nelson R. Darragh Announces Plans for Station at Baumgartner and Lemay Ferry Roads.

Construction of Radio Station KMOX's 50,000-watt broadcasting plant on Baumgartner road, near Lemay Ferry road, St. Louis County, will begin Monday, Nelson R. Darragh, president of the Voice of St. Louis, Inc., which owns the station, announced today.

A contract for $165,000 worth of equipment has been signed with the Graybar Electric Co., Darragh said, and installation will be completed in three months. Other contracts call for the erection of a reinforced concrete building of brick construction and two antenna towers 200 feet high. Broadcasting will begin before midsummer.

Grandi Asserts His Country
Is Ready to Examine Favorably Complete Abolition of Capital Ships.

By the Associated Press
LONDON, Feb. 19.—The five Power naval disarmament conference adjourned this afternoon for one week because of the French Cabinet crisis caused by the fall of the Tardieu Government.

The decision was reached after a meeting between American Secretary of State Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald, at which the chief of the American delegation urged a holiday to give the French an opportunity to adjust their domestic situation.

The British Prime Minister immediately consulted Dino Grandi, head of the Italian delegation, both of whom agreed on the advisability of such a recess.

During this adjournment, the experts' committee will continue the work upon which they have been engaged, but all other conference activities will cease, the adjourment being until Feb. 26.

Stimson is understood to have been entirely responsible for initiating the recess.

The French naval experts were present as observers when the subcommittee which is discussing special and exempt vessels assembled at St. James's Palace.

Statement Issued by Grandi
Grandi, Italian Foreign Minister, today issued a statement announcing that the fundamental position of Italian naval policy was based upon reduction and parity with any continental power.

The Italian statement completed the series of definite announcements of national policies at the conference already made public by the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan.

Italy, the statement said, believes her policy is justified by the existence of the pact of the League of Nations, the pact of Locarno and the Kellogg-Briand treaty and responds to the public opinion of all Italy.

Italy prepared, said the statement, to examine favorably the complete abolition of capital ships.

Italy agreed, the statement added, not only to hold her fleet strength equal to that of any continental Power, but will agree to reduce her navy to the lowest level that continental Powers can agree upon.

Would Consider Submarine Bar.
Grandi's declaration restored
Italy's willingness to consider abolition of submarines in connection with real reduction in other forms of naval armament.

It also restored the Italian naval position as being, at present, practically at parity with France if capital ships are excluded from the calculations.

Grandi characterized the Italian statement as one of "faith, hope, parity and reduction."

Grandi concluded with the declaration that Italy firmly believes the London conference will achieve the naval reductions for which opinion of all the world is in agreement.

Opinion of Observers.
Among observers at the conference, the opinion was expressed that the real significance of the Italian statement was to indicate how far apart Italy and France are as regards a naval agreement.

French headquarters naturally declined to express an opinion concerning Grandi's statement, since the French delegates are in Paris,
but it was intimated in French circles that the statement did not seem to contribute anything to the progress of the conference.

George Leygues, French Minister of Marine and last of the French delegation here, met Ambassador de Fleureau returned to Paris yesterday, leaving experts and advisers of the delegation behind without any official standing whatever. Fleureau formally notified the other delegations that the work of the French had been suspended completely.

Thanks We Are Needed In Haiti.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

OUR investigators will soon be in Haiti but will they bring back facts or theories? They will be received at Port-au-Prince, dined at the Hotel de France, and surrounded by a few of the select of that Republic. The military authorities will also make their report. How many of the people will then talk? What would they think if they could ask 100 of them in the common class their name and age and receive $9 to $5 answers, "I don't know?" Will they be able to compare the unsanitary conditions which existed prior to our occupation with the better ones of today?—they see but one.

How much of the rural district will they cover, how many of what are called homes there will they enter? In other words, just how much real information about the mass of the population will they bring back?

These people may seem to be on a plane with the others of the Western Hemisphere, viewed from here, but to one on the spot it is apparent that our work in behalf of the people of that Republic will be needed for some generations yet, and it is not possible for one familiar with the situation there to reconcile himself with the idea that those people can manage their destiny to a better advantage without our assistance.

AN EYE WITNESS.

Scott Field, Ill.

Madison County Candidates.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE dog-racers of Madison County, Ill., are putting on a pretty show. The candidates for Sheriff are all lined up for the race. A voter might well be puzzled when he gives the aspiring ones the once-over. There is one favorite son who will command the extreme endeavors of the big boys and all his loyal henchmen. In each of the towns is a less favored candidate whose function it is to collect all the votes the favorite one cannot get, so as to pull off support from any candidate launched by the law-abiding element. A perplexed voter said yesterday: "St. Valentine's Day has come and gone, the limit for filing is almost here and still the people have no candidate for Sheriff in the field. There is no room left to bring in a man for Sheriff in the April primaries. Why should I bother about choosing between A, B, C, D or E when they all belong to X?" AN ILLINOISAN.

Edwardsville, Ill.

Suggestions to Gov. Caulfield.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

GOV. CAULFIELD is right when he told the Young Republicans that the way we elect State Senators is a "farce on representative government."

These are some of the answers to the question, "Is aviation safe?" If they are not entirely conclusive they at least show that the aviation industry is extraordinarily busy at its job, and at any moment from the hundreds of experimental laboratories now engaged in the problem may come the factor or set of factors which will permit an unequivocal answer. "Yes, planes are not only safe, but fool proof." In the meantime, the British have shown us that, at the present stage of progress, a large measure of aviation safety is already attainable merely by the constant exercise of prudence and caution.

IS AVIATION SAFE?

While the International Aircraft Exposition is in progress in St. Louis the Post-Dispatch wishes to repeat its warning to commercial aviation in America that public confidence in this new type of transportation can be won only by the strictest regard for safety.

We believe it unquestionable that aviation, though but a trifles older than 26 years, has made greater progress toward safety than the steam railroad in a like period of time. As the prize exhibit, we offer the remarkable record of Imperial Airways Limited, reviewed last Sunday in the Post-Dispatch. Since 1924, when it was formed by a consolidation of all British air lines, this company has had but four serious accidents. It maintains a twice-daily service (four times daily in summer) each way between London and Paris, weekly services between London and Zurich and London and Cologne, and for the past year has operated planes on a 5000-mile route between England and India.

From December, 1924, when seven passengers were killed at the Croydon airport, four and a half years elapsed without fatalities or even injuries. In that period the company's planes flew a distance of 3,400,000 miles. Three serious accidents happened in 1929, one of which was a marine rather than an air disaster. The plane in question landed successfully in the Gulf of Genoa, and was taken in tow by a tramp steamer. The tow line snapped in a storm and the steamer could not rescue the plane. Consider these impressive figures: In five years and nine months, Imperial Airways planes made 26,726 separate flights, flew more than 5,457,000 miles and carried 132,633 passengers, with a casualty record of one passenger injured, 18 passengers and six members of crews killed.

This record is explainable not by any British technological superiority in the manufacture or operation of airplanes, but on the ground of cautious management and stringent regulations. Pilots must have flown at least 1000 hours and must own a second-class navigator's license. Planes are built according to rigid standards and are tested and inspected frequently and with thoroughness. Imperial Airways, of course, avails itself of every safety advantage implied in the fullest use of wireless and meteorological knowledge. The results prove that mechanically the airplane does everything expected of it, and that what is needed is to reduce to the minimum the possibility of human error or indiscretion.

Of course, before the airplane becomes available for such use as is now made of the automobile, it must be made fool proof. That is, its mechanical perfection must be such that it will conquer human error. We do not believe it is over-optimistic to say that aviation engineers are rapidly approaching that goal. On view at The Arena this week is the Curtiss Tanager, which recently won the Guggenheim safety prize. The Tanager is designed to prevent spinning, one of the common causes of accidents. It illustrates many new ideas, such as slotted wings and ingeniously contrived flaps and ailerons. The peril of fog being overcome by the development of instruments to permit blind flying, and the introduction of the Diesel engine means not only greater economy of operation but elimination of fire hazard. Experiments with the autogiro indicate that very soon we are likely to have a plane which will rise and descend perpendicularly, making unnecessary the ground speed planes must now generate to take off and the velocity with which they must land. Along with these evidences of progress, of course, is constant improvement of landing fields, refueling, automatic flood lighting, weather reporting, radio communication and other collateral aviation aids.

These are some of the answers to the question, "Is aviation safe?" If they are not entirely conclusive they at least show that the aviation industry is extraordinarily busy at its job, and at any moment from the hundreds of experimental laboratories now engaged in the problem may come the factor or set of factors which will permit an unequivocal answer.

"Yes, planes are not only safe, but fool proof." In the meantime, the British have shown us that, at the present stage of progress, a large measure of aviation safety is already attainable merely by the constant exercise of prudence and caution.

PUTTING CHRISTOPHER IN CORSAIR.

Canon Castinga of Marseilles is looking for trouble when he says that the adventurous yachtsman, Christopher Columbus, was a Corsican. It is now pretty well established that discovering America was one of the popular pastimes of the Old World after Europe had got fed up on crusading and was looking for new thrills. Every blue-eyed Viking knows that a progenitor of his was the first to cross the pond, and until recently that was a boast which our bona fide Nordics could safely make anywhere. But lately somebody sorting over the data found unmistakable proof that America was originally found by an Irishman, since which time both Italian and Scandinavian claimants usually take a cautious glance around before singing their saga. Many of us who are able to consider the matter without racial prejudice still trail along with Columbus, who himself supposed that Spain was his home town. Certainly there was no suggestion of Corsican technique in his manner of persuading Isabella to pawn the jewels. A Corsican would have ripped the necklace off the royal neck, pitched the lady and Ferdinand both out the window, put a younger brother on the throne and sailed blithely away. Any island that produced the Bonaparte family could never have mothered a modest spirit like the gentle Genoese. But we shall get into no controversy with Canon Castinga. We prefer to settle this question of Christopher's homeland by introducing the Canon to Mussolini.

SENATOR SMOOT, PROTECTOR OF MORALS.

It is reported that Senator Smoot will ask the Senate to reconsider his vote of last fall on the Cutting amendment to the tariff bill. After Senator Cutting's brilliant exposition of the folly and tyranny of customs censorship, the Senate deprived the customs department of the right to exclude so-called obscene literature. Senator Cutting showed that customs clerks in effect were exercising suzerainty over the intellect of American citizens, that many works stamped obscene are adjudged literary classics by men of taste and discrimination, and that whatever protection is needed against offensive literature is provided by the police powers of the States.

In the meantime, Senator Smoot has been provided by customs authorities with a carefully selected assortment of smut. And the melancholy gentleman from Utah is so shocked and distressed that he intends to read some of the objectionable passages to the Senate as his argument against the Cutting amendment. We trust the Senate will decisively repudiate this effort to continue in effect the ignorant and tyrannous customs censorship. Senator Smoot's solicitude for our morals is very touching, but we do not think the free American people stand in need of it.

NO SECURITY FACTS.

Mr. Hoover and his delegation at the disarmament conference should be warned against attempting to make any political guarantees to either the French or the Japanese. The people of the United States will not consent to security pacts, nor will the United States Senate ratify such treaties. Even to implement the Kellogg pact to mean that the signatories will agree to consult with one another in the event of a prospective rupture would be dangerous business without first ascertaining what the people of the United States and the Senate think of such an invention.

That can be done only by bringing the pact up for reconsideration. It is almost certain that there would be great opposition to it upon the part of the American people, and much stronger arguments would have to be made to gain their consent than have been advanced at London. To say that Mr. Hughes has already made the same suggestion, and that Mr. Stimson is for it, is far from sufficient. It should be remembered that many eminent Americans who were for a League of Nations changed their minds about it when the matter came to a test. We have always thought the Kellogg pact was meaningless, and by proposing to put teeth in it as a means of consolidating the French our American delegation confesses as much. After all the solemn pantomime with which this instrument was signed, it is amusing to read that it is as meaningless as Mr. Stimson and his associates now admit it is.

The historical precedent of what happened when Mr. Wilson proposed a political guarantee to France should be sufficient warning to Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson. There is also the warning of what happened in England when the English people discovered that the Baldwin Government had made a secret security pact with France. Security is the French price for any abatement of that armament which has made her dominant on the land and in the air among European nations outside of Russia, as it is the price she asks for abating her desire to balance the power of England in the English Channel and the Mediterranean.

Following the French example, the Japanese are disposed to make abatement of their ship-building plans contingent upon the guarantee that the United States will not set up a powerful naval station at Cavite. From this situation has resulted the proposal to neutralize the Philippines. In our opinion neither consideration should be entertained by the United States. We have no intention of threatening the naval power of Japan in the far Pacific, and we are as eager as anyone to perpetuate the amicable balances set up in that dangerous area by the Washington conference. Japan, we feel, has no real misgivings upon this score.

Mr. Hoover said in his Armistice day speech that we are willing to go as far in naval disarmament as the other naval Powers will go. If France and Japan require security pacts we cannot go very far. Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson must be assured of that.

WE ADVISE MR. ROCKEFELLER.

Golf, remarked Mr. Rockefeller, a bit weary, "takes the conceit out of one." The dear old chap had what is known as "one of those days." And they are on every mortal's calendar. Days when a two-foot putt is a paragon; when a masher's perfect trajectory suddenly hooks into a grinning trap; when the drive, for some diabolical reason, or no reason at all, abruptly nosedives into a dribble; days when the caddie corrodes the ambient with "malicious animal magnetism."

But there are other days, praise heaven, blue, shining, invincible; days that banish all unhappy memories; days when caution finely justifies itself and daring wins its reward; days that bathe the soul in glory and invest the head with a Napoleonic aura; superb, supernal days, when one is truly on his stride, has really played the game of which he is capable.

Our word of counsel to Uncle John: See your pro-

THE PROHIBITION POLL.

The Literary Digest is preparing a prohibition poll which, under present plans, will seek to determine public sentiment on two questions: repeal of the eighteenth amendment and modification of the Volstead law to permit the sale of light wines and beers. It is understood that 25,000,000 ballots will be so distributed as fairly to register urban and rural opinion. How the result of this canvass will be received may safely be predicted. If wet the drys will reject it; if dry the wet will turn thumbs down. In either or any event not a hair on the status quo's head will be disturbed. Still, the Digest has pretty accurately called the turn in the last three presidential elections, and with that record, the winner in this unofficial contest will have something to shout about.

Dismissing the outcome and its reception, there is no significance, it seems to us, in the Digest's decision to make the canvas. Certainly there would be no occasion for it were public sentiment as preponderantly dry as our professional prohibitionists profess to believe. Nor would the motion be in order if prohibition had so justified itself as to silence controversy.

The Digest's proposal may, in our judgment, be reasonably taken to mean that prohibition, after 10 years, is a debatable issue properly calling for popular trial and verdict. To make this plain, the questions should be so put as to avoid all confusion.

MR. MOORE'S CAREER.

Pittsburg knew him as a successful newspaper publisher.

Politics knew him as an influential person in Republican councils, who left the party in the stormy days of 1912 to follow the blazing trail of Col. Roosevelt.

Business knew him as the partner of Dr. Munyon, who for a generation pointed an injunctive finger from the advertising columns.

All America knew him as the man who married the lovely Lillian Russell.

Diplomacy knew him as our Ambassador to Spain, later as Ambassador to Peru, and Mr. Hoover had honored him recently with appointment as Ambassador to Poland.

Death at 63 has ended the varied career of Alexander P. Moore, cosmopolitan, who lived on the happiest terms with the world.

SENATOR SMOOT, PROTECTOR OF MORALS.

It is reported that Senator Smoot will ask the Senate to reconsider his vote of last fall on the Cutting amendment to the tariff bill. After Senator Cutting's brilliant exposition of the folly and tyranny of customs censorship, the Senate deprived the customs department of the right to exclude so-called obscene literature. Senator Cutting showed that customs clerks in effect were exercising suzerainty over the intellect of American citizens, that many works stamped obscene are adjudged literary classics by men of taste and discrimination, and that whatever protection is needed against offensive literature is provided by the police powers of the States.

In the meantime, Senator Smoot has been provided by customs authorities with a carefully selected assortment of smut. And the melancholy gentleman from Utah is so shocked and distressed that he intends to read some of the objectionable passages to the Senate as his argument against the Cutting amendment.

We trust the Senate will decisively repudiate this effort to continue in effect the ignorant and tyrannous customs censorship. Senator Smoot's solicitude for our morals is very touching, but we do not think the free American people stand in need of it.

That can be done only by bringing the pact up for reconsideration. It is almost certain that there would be great opposition to it upon the part of the American people, and much stronger arguments would have to be made to gain their consent than have been advanced at London. To say that Mr. Hughes has already made the same suggestion, and that Mr. Stimson is for it, is far from sufficient. It should be remembered that many eminent Americans who were for a League of Nations changed their minds about it when the matter came to a test. We have always thought the Kellogg pact was meaningless, and by proposing to put teeth in it as a means of consolidating the French our American delegation confesses as much. After all the solemn pantomime with which this instrument was signed, it is amusing to read that it is as meaningless as Mr. Stimson and his associates now admit it is.

The historical precedent of what happened when Mr. Wilson proposed a political guarantee to France should be sufficient warning to Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson. There is also the warning of what happened in England when the English people discovered that the Baldwin Government had made a secret security pact with France. Security is the French price for any abatement of that armament which has made her dominant on the land and in the air among European nations outside of Russia, as it is the price she asks for abating her desire to balance the power of England in the English Channel and the Mediterranean.

Following the French example, the Japanese are disposed to make abatement of their ship-building plans contingent upon the guarantee that the United States will not set up a powerful naval station at Cavite. From this situation has resulted the proposal to neutralize the Philippines. In our opinion neither consideration should be entertained by the United States. We have no intention of threatening the naval power of Japan in the far Pacific, and we are as eager as anyone to perpetuate the amicable balances set up in that dangerous area by the Washington conference.

Japan, we feel, has no real misgivings upon this score.

Mr. Hoover said in his Armistice day speech that we are willing to go as far in naval disarmament as the other naval Powers will go. If France and Japan require security pacts we cannot go very far. Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson must be assured of that.

MELLON: TIMES AIN'T WHAT THEY USED TO BE.

What Would Satisfy France?

French policy at naval parley unlikely to change despite fall of Tardieu; nation can afford to build and is in mood to do so; program calls for position stronger than any modern power has held, on sea, on land and in air; while others accept peace moves as security and means to arms reduction, Paris still remains unsatisfied.

From the New York World.

M. TARDIEU'S defeat in the French Chamber was not due to his policy at the London naval conference, and it is evident that he will not be the one to blame for it. The policy announced by him was to make the French naval policy, no matter whether M. Tardieu succeeds himself or is replaced by another. The general position taken by M. Tardieu at London was formulated before M. Tardieu became Prime Minister, and will probably be maintained should he fall permanently from power. The essence of that policy is a statement by M. Tardieu that the French needs in naval tonnage, plus the announcement that these needs can be reduced in proportion to the willingness of the other Powers to make political engagements. France has offered Britain and America the choice of more ships or more political guarantees.

There is no room for argument on the fact that France is in a very strong position. Next to the United States she can best afford to take on a large building program and she is in the mood to do it. The program which M. Tardieu has outlined would give France a position in Europe which no power in modern history has ever held before. She would have a supreme army, an air force equal to least to the greatest, and a navy sufficiently powerful to dispute the command of the English Channel and of the Mediterranean routes. Germany in the years before 1914 aimed at such a combination of land and sea power, but no nation has ever achieved it in modern Europe. Always in the past sea power and land power have been separated.

The French answer would presumably be that neither Britain nor America seems to consider the political guarantees thus far established as of any real value, since they are promising to maintain existing bases of present navies. There is some force in this argument, but it is a debating point rather than a real point. For it leaves out of account the famous thesis, so often expounded by the French in other connections, of the interdependence of sea, air and land armaments. France is the only power which wishes to combine great power at sea with supremacy on land and in the air.

It will be worth while to explore the problem even if it cannot be settled at this conference. The public opinion of the world needs to be informed precisely what value M. Tardieu puts upon his different forms of guarantees to which he all

Of Making Many Books JOHN G. NEIWARDT

A Great Story

LIFE OF JOHN KEATS. By Albert Erlande. Translated from the French by Marion Robinson. (Jonah Cape and Harrison Smith.)

I might seem that after the two great biographies of John Keats by Sir Colvin and Amy Lowell there could be little justification for another study of the poet's life, especially a relatively brief one such as that here noted. It is doubtful that any fact of importance can have eluded Amy, well in her laborious and surely fruitful search for anything in any way bearing upon the life and work of one whose memory she loved, not only as an aesthetic appreciator but also as a woman.

But regardless of how much the reader may know about Keats, he should be able to find in Erlande's new and growing study a genuine contribution, though certainly not one of fact. Were this work no more than a respectable popularization of the Keats story, it would be justified, since relatively few of the larger reading public can be expected to study either Colvin or Lowell, and there is a meaning in the tragic tale for far more people than will ever become aware of it.

Erlande's "Life" is not, however, to be classed with the many popularizations of nearly everything in our day. Nor does it place a disproportionate emphasis upon Keats' love for Fanny Brawne, which might have been expected, now that so large a portion of the public seems to demand that sort of thing. The young lady is, her right-hand share in the story—which was a very considerable one in so short and intense a life—but it is apparent that the author is interested in the tragic relationship only for what it did to the tortured spirit of Keats, since but for accident it might not have been Fanny at all, but some Nellie or Mary or Jane.

Perhaps the chief value of Erlande's study grows out of the fact that he has appreciated the Keats story for what it essentially is—one of the many versions of the greatest in a series of the greatest human stories. It is that of the immemorial and inevitable strife between the higher and the lower human consciousness, to use modern psychological phraseology; between the sense-world and that of the spirit, if the older terms be preferred. It is the story of the human spirit's ancient and everlasting struggle to transcend the beast and live for values that are not to be measured or priced and cannot be bought or stolen. Over and over again in different ages and in different lands the Keats story triumphs, strange through pain and overthrow; but such is our continuing blindness that each repetition of that old defeat seems final to us, and always when the apparent defeat is seen at length as triumph, we are again surprised.

NEAR TO $1,000,000 FOLLOWS OPERA COMPANY FOR VACATION

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Joseph Horowitz, Brooklyn court interpreter, who inherited $1,000,000 from his brother, Conrad Hubert, flashlight manufacturer, is leaving today on a month's vacation. He is going to follow a German Opera company from Indianapolis, Indiana, to the West Coast.

Horowitz said he would return about the end of March to work. In May, however, he plans a tour of Europe. Also, he has ideas of spending some of his money philanthropically.

Horowitz used to save nickels on carfare so he could sit in a gallery seat in the Metropolitan Opera House.

Artist to Give Demonstration

A demonstration of how an artist paints a picture will be conducted at City Art Museum Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Mrs. Florence B. Ver Steeg. She will paint a still life group of fruits and flowers, explaining as she works how the subjects are arranged, their effects in light and shadow, and how they are achieved by use of colors. The demonstration is intended primarily for children, but is open to the public.

$12.100 for Recreational Painting

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 19.—

The Wimbrouse gallery of New York last night purchased for $12,100 a canvas by Sir Henry Raeburn, British artist of the late eighteenth century, and immediately placed a value of $150,000 on the painting. The canvas was sold at an auction of the collection of Dr. Van Eaton Denton and Evelyn A. Harrison, Baltimore.

RUSSIAN CHURCH
HEAD AGAIN RAKES
CRITICS OF SOVIET

United States or any other country have protested against these violent attacks of the Catholic Church.

Doesn't Hindry Church. When the newspapermen pressed him for an explanation of the ecclesiastical status of the present synod, and of what proportion of the Greek Orthodox faith he was authorized to speak for, the Metropolitan replied:

"My canonical authority was received from the legal regency of the patriarchal throne, which in turn received its authority from the late Patriarch Tikhon from the congress of the Greek Catholic church in 1917 and 1918. I speak for the overwhelming majority of adherents in this country of the patriarchal church."

"When will you be allowed to summon a regular church council and elect a regularly constituted synod?" was the next question.

"Preparations are now in progress for convoking such a council."

Commenting upon the Government's observance of Sundays and church holidays and its institution of the non-stop five-day working week, the Metropolitan said "the Soviet Government never observed church holidays in state or public institutions. But that in no way hinders their observance by the church."

Exiles Violated Regulations.

"We cannot complain of any absence of worshippers resulting from the Government's suppression of Sundays and holidays. Nor has the introduction of the five-day week seriously affected church attendance. Jesus Christ said 'man was not made for the sabbath, but the sabbath for man'."

He reiterated his previous denial that many priests had been exiled for their religious beliefs, insisting that they had been banished for violation of Soviet regulations. He admitted that priests had been disfranchised and had suffered other disabilities but argued that millions of active church-goers enjoyed all civic rights, including that of franchise.

"These parishioners support us materially," he said. "We don't require any kind of assistance, above all, no support from abroad."

Soviet Orders Largest Synagogue

in Russia Closed.

(Copyright 1930, by Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., New York World and Daily News.)

MOSCOW, Feb. 19.—Pursuant to agitation here to close all churches, the Soviet Government has given its agents two weeks in which to close activities of the Choral Synagogue, the largest in Russia, on the ground that it has been converted into a club.

While Jewish leaders are protesting, it is reported that not one synagogue is being left in the parts of the country that are being used for collectivized farming. Dozens of synagogues have been closed in the last two weeks.

Many former Jewish leaders who have been forced to eat in restaurants after being deprived of their bread cards are affected by the orders of the Government that no meals are to be sold in restaurants except to the workers having union cards.

Appeal Made to Hoover to Withhold Recognition.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The religious policy of the Russian Soviet Government was the subject of protest today by Christian and Jewish organizations. Developments in the movement of protest included:

An appeal to President Hoover by the American Committee on Religious Rights and Minorities to withhold recognition of the Soviet Government until the persecutions for religion cease.

Designation of March 2 by the Lutheran world convention as a day of prayer in the interests of Christians in Russia and Russia. This was in line with similar action by Pope Pius XI, the Archbishops of Canterbury and York in England, the Chief Rabbi in London, and Bishop William T. Manning of the Protestant Episcopal Church in New York.

A statement by the American Jewish Congress denouncing "the unspeakable repressions" of religion in Soviet Russia and pledging cooperation with all other faiths to put an end to it.

Adoption of a resolution by the National Council of the Episcopal Church directing its acting president, Bishop James de Wolf Perry of Rhode Island, to prepare for the church a prayer for the sufferers in Russia.

Adoption of a resolution of sympathy for the Christians in Russia by the Methodist Church.

Meanwhile, the Communist Party from its headquarters in Union Square issued a statement denying the accuracy of reports of religious persecutions emanating from Russia and declaring the stories were propaganda inspired by the fear of the rapid strides Soviet Russia is making in communistic productions.

Protestations also were being made by the communists, members of radical unions and friends of the Soviet Union to hold a mass meeting on March 15, the day designated by Bishop Manning for united prayer for Russian Christians. The place for holding the Soviet meeting of protest against the Christians' appeal has not been decided upon, but it was announced that one of the most prominent would be William Montgomery Brown, former Episcopal Bishop of Arkansas, who was excommunicated by the House of Bishops for heresy.

Commenting upon the Government's observance of Sundays and church holidays and its institution of the non-stop five-day working week, the Metropolitan said "the Soviet Government never observed church holidays in state or public institutions. But that in no way hinders their observance by the church."

A Product of Modern Mechanics

In MAKING a certain high-grade shoe 210 separate operations are possible, 170 of them machine operations. Machines and operations vary according to the type of shoe being made. There are five important shoemaking processes—Goodyear Welt, McKay, Turn, Littleway, and Stitchdown. In the Beverly, Massachusetts, factory of United Shoe Machinery Corporation, 450 different shoemaking machines are made. One machine alone has 1151 parts. Over 100,000 different catalogued machine parts are always on hand in the stock room. At their branch offices 21,000,000 parts are distributed annually. These parts vary in size from a machine frame weighing 1540 pounds to a spring so small that it takes 425 of them to weigh an ounce. The use of these diversified machines has increased the dollar value of the shoe to the consumer.

KIRKWOOD TO VOTE MARCH 4 ON COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

If Proposal Is Approved New
Officials Will Be Elected

Citizens of Kirkwood will vote on March 4 to determine whether the commission form of government, allowing the election of a Mayor and two Commissioners, will be adopted, this date having been set by Mayor R. L. Jacobsmeyer.

The town has the ward system at present and elects a Mayor and Aldermen. If the commission form is adopted, as has been in Webster Groves and Maplewood, Kirkwood, with a population of 11,000, will become a third-class instead of a fourth-class city.

Approximately 600 citizens signed the petition for the change, which was filed about a month ago. A majority vote will determine the proposal.

If the measure is passed March 4 the required officers will be selected at the regular election April 8.

WHAT IF THIS WERE THE LAW?

No man in Missouri, having a wife and child, may leave any part of his estate to his father or mother, on his death....even if the child is self supporting and the parents are old and helpless.....

You would resent, and rightly, a Missouri law to that effect, but if you die without a will, that in substance is a part of the statute that will govern the distribution of your estate.

"But my son intended"...."we are dependent on him"...."he has helped us along for years"....unfortunately, intentions cannot amend the law, which is written for the benefit of the masses, and cannot consider the individual case.

Your lawyer will tell you that the law gives you the right to make a will, and order it to meet the needs of those who are depending on you. See him about this most important matter at once, and tell him you wish to appoint The Safe Executor to carry on your plans...when you must stop.

FOUR MEN AND TWO WOMEN HURT IN BUTTON PLANT FIRE

$25,000 Blaze at 413 Lucas Starts
in Pile of Celluloid Scrap.

Thirty-five employees on the second floor of the St. Louis Button Co. plant at 413-15 Lucas Avenue rushed to windows about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when a scrap pile of celluloid became ignited, the flames spreading quickly throughout the floor. City Fireman John Gerdes, who was passing by, and Patrolman Charles Robins, received messages of reassurance and were not injured from jumping. All in the building escaped by way of the stairs.

Four men and two women employees of the button company, were treated at the City Hospital, and several others, slightly injured, received medical attention. The building, a three-story structure, was damaged about $10,000, and the stock about $15,000. Defective wiring is supposed to have started the fire.

The following were treated at City Hospital: Benjamin Messing, 2107 North Fifteenth Street, burned arm and face; Edward Ayers, 2319 Arsenal street, burned arm and face; Paul Schmitt, 215 Steins street, burned arm; Harry Seimer, 4445 Plover Avenue, burned face; Miss Frieda Rall, 3212 Seventy-fourth, cut and bruised in fall downstairs; Miss Marie Berthoux, 2326 North Market Street, burned in effervescent, and, furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, let the liver stimulate the excretion and secretion, and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices. Ted Sals, is largely relieved and made from the acid of grapefruit and lemon juice, combined with lithium and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

Fire in a two-story brick building at 215 Lincoln Street occupied by the Clayton Printing Co. and the Market Binding Co., caused $14,000 damage about 7 o'clock this morning. The building was damaged $3000, the printing company's stock $8000, and the bindery, $2000. The origin was not determined.

MARCHES ALLEGED SWINDLER
10 BLOCKS TO A POLICEMAN

Peter Bonmarito Had Lent $6 to Man Who Promised Him a Job.

Peter Bonmarito, 934 North Eighth Street, accepted a job in another city where it was offered to him by a man who said he was John Mastrosifakis, Portland, Ind., but became suspicious after he had lent the stranger $6 as they waited for a train at Union Station last night.

Mastrosifakis had flashed a roll of money exposing a $100 bill and explaining he had no money of small denomination. Bonmarito followed him when he left to make some purchases, accused him of trying to defraud him and marched his prisoner 10 blocks from Sixth and Chestnut streets where he knew a policeman might be found.

Police say Mastrosifakis admitted he had no job for Bonmarito.

BISHOP AT 72 FINDS
HIS ALASKAN FLOCK BY DOG TEAM AND PLANE

gions, seven of them in the Arctic Circle, includes a sweater and parkie, a hooded, denim overgarment. At night, accompanied only by an Eskimo or Indian, he makes camp, sleeping on tarpaulin covered boughs and wearing a fur garment, cut like his parkie. Tents freeze, he said, and are not practical for use on the trail.

How Teaching Aided Wilkins.

Teaching the Eskimos English bore practical fruit three years ago when Elleson and Wilkins, with whom Bishop Rowe often flew, were flying from Point Barrow to Fairbanks.

They lost their way but glimpsed through hanging clouds an Eskimo village. Flying low, Wilkins dropped a note, requiring that the villagers form a human arrow pointing the way to Fairbanks. To his surprise, they did so at once, and their plane, with its gasoline supply low, was headed in the right direction without loss of time and fuel.

The Bishop of Alaska traverses his territory alone. He has no secretaries, no boards, no committees. Twelve ministers are stationed at various missions. He personally has established 15 elementary schools, besides several permanent hospitals and numerous field hospitals, many of them under the most dangerous conditions. The mission fund of the church pays the salaries of the Alaska clergy but hospitals and schools are supported by public contribution. That's why Bishop Rowe is speaking here for five days at various Episcopal churches.

Paul Mather, a Tsimshian Indian from the southeastern section of Alaska, whom the Bishop "converted"—he hates the word—will speak with the Bishop at a mass meeting at Christ Church Cathedral Sunday night.

Convent's First Train Ride.

"Mother is riding the trains for the first time, seeing her first skyscrapers," Bishop Rowe said, "but nothing ever fazes him. This is his first time out of Alaska. He has the stoicism of his race. But I know he is wondering. And I brought him back because he epitomizes the result of our work."

Although a train from Fairbanks to the Southern Coast makes it possible now to cover a distance in two days that took 20 days of hard "mushing" in 1916, Bishop Rowe said, conditions north of Fairbanks are much as they were 35 years ago, before the Klondike and Robert W. Service immortalized the country.

Most of Service's poems reflect the true spirit of the Alaskan prospectors, Bishop Rowe said, and there is much room for a great deal of additional prospecting.

"Alaska is only beginning to be opened up," the Bishop said, "and I feel that I'm only beginning my work, even after 35 years of it."

Acid Stomach
Starts Indigestion

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and hot, sour foods folks believe, from a lack of digestive fluid.

He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation; then much that is eaten causes sour stomach, forming acid fluids and gases.

We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate foam and gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, belching or cramps.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get out any pharmacy four ounces of Jed Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescent, and, furthermore, to continue this for one week.

While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, let the liver stimulate the excretion and secretion, and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jed Salts is largely relieved and made from the acid of grapefruit and lemon juice, combined with lithium and sodium phosphate.

This harmless salt is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

HIRING OF SOTHERN
STIRS WOMAN'S CLUB

Kirkwood Organization Engages Actor for Performance After Brisk Debate.

When the Little Theater movement fell with a crash in Kirkwood recently, and the magnificent Kirkwood Little Theater was offered for sale as a dance hall or even a movie theater, votaries of the dramatic art in Kirkwood were embarrassed.

Was Kirkwood just a little town indifferent to art? Wasn't there something Kirkwood could do to establish itself again as a true art-loving community? These were among the questions they asked each other.

Mrs. H. F. Chadeayne, president of the Kirkwood League of Women Voters, dropped a bombshell in a league meeting several weeks ago, when she said: "The opportunity has come at last." The Kirkwood League of Women Voters can bring Mrs. Sothern, the Shakespearean actress to Kirkwood.

Most women present were enthusiastic; others were doubtful. Sothern's fee was $550 for two performances, and that seemed like a great deal of money for the Kirkwood League of Women Voters to guarantee.

One faction, led by Mrs. H. C. Walker, a member of the Executive Committee, opposed engaging Sothern. Another faction, led by Mrs. Chadeayne, pictured the appearance of Sothern as Kirkwood's chance to redeem itself.

After several stormy meetings, the pro-Sothern faction carried the day. The voting, at times, seemed close, but the outcome was decisive. Sothern's offer to come to Kirkwood, along with a guarantee that he would not appear in St. Louis this season, was accepted.

"Our purpose was two-fold," Mrs. Chadeayne told a reporter today. "We not only wanted to show that Kirkwood could do big things, but also we felt that this was also an opportunity to pay off our quota to the $3600 fund being raised by the State League, and through which the name of Mrs. George Gellhorn is to be placed on the national roll of honor in Washington. A few thought we should not involve ourselves to the amount of $550 but we felt that Kirkwood would respond. We have already sold tickets almost up to the amount of Sothern's fee."

Mrs. Walker, who has resigned from the Executive Committee of the League of Women Voters in Kirkwood since the Sothern affair became an issue, said she hoped the two appearances of Sothern would be financially successful. Previous engagements, she said, would prevent her from attending either performance.

Sothern will appear tomorrow afternoon and again tomorrow evening in the auditorium of the Kirkwood High School on Kirkwood road. He will give readings from Shakespeare.

THE MESSAGE MUST GO THROUGH

The Day Force takes the Switchboard

"The city is awakening slowly as Molly takes her place."

At 6 o'clock in the morning, Molly Malone comes out of the gray dawn into the long switchboard room at the telephone office.

You'd wonder how so few of them could watch so long a section! But Molly —like the others—"knows her stuff."

Quietly she stands, plugs in swiftly when the tiny lights flash, answers:

"Number, please?"

The tall windows of the office grow lighter with approaching day. Faster and faster glow the signal lights—minute by minute the calls mount.

At 7 o'clock, Molly, her fingers flying in a race with the growing traffic, hears the light shuffle of feet on the stairs.

THE MOST TELEPHONE SERVICE AND THE BEST . . . FOR THE LEAST

Twenty-four operators enter, stand quietly unwinding the cords of their head-sets. A supervisor reads the day's instructions.

Then, silently, girls slip into place. Chairs are pushed up. The day force takes the switchboard!

And the signal lights glow faster and faster—by leaps and bounds the volume grows!

The room is vibrant with activity. Other operators come in methodically at 7:30, at 8 o'clock, reinforcing those on duty. A low hum of voices rises. A light clatter of plugs.

Up and up goes the volume of calls, rising swiftly toward 9 o'clock—the busiest hour of the day. A veritable torrent of tongues is pouring through the silent switchboard now—business—pleasure—drama—gathered from all the corners of the city by the far-flung web of telephone wires.

In front of Molly, answering cords lace the front of the board. Lights flash for a brief moment before swift fingers thrust in a plug, a clear voice questions: "Number, please?"

Thus smoothly, efficiently, are operating forces marshaled in hundreds of telephone offices throughout the Southwest, to meet the morning rush of traffic.

Ten thousand operators—all Molly Malones!—are concentrated on the task of putting your calls through swiftly, accurately, conveniently. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

"More calls are placed between 9 and 11 o'clock than at any other hours of the day."

BILLIKENS ANNOUNCE 9-GAME FOOTBALL SCHEDULE FOR 1930 SEASON

WASHINGTON U., MISSOURI AND LOYOLA DATES ARE FEATURED

By James M. Gould

St. Louis University today announced a nine-game football schedule for the season of 1930. The lateness of the announcement was due to the changing of coaches in mid-winter. "Chile" Walsh succeeding "Hunk" Anderson. This change forced the Billikens to compile a schedule rather in a hurry but Coach Walsh and Father O'Regan, director of athletics, despite the little time given them, have arranged an attractive set of games. The schedule now goes to the Athletic Board for final ratification.

The feature contests will be those with Washington University on Thanksgiving day, with the University of Missouri on Oct. 11—the game to dedicate the new St. Louis U. Stadium—and those with Loyola University of Chicago and Loyola of New Orleans. Three of these feature games will be played here, Loyola of Chicago being played there for the second year.

Two night games, both away from home, are announced. These are to be with Oklahoma City at Oklahoma City on Oct. 4 and with the Arkansas Aggies at Jonesboro, Ark. Oct. 25.

The Billikens will open the campaign here with Cornell College (Iowa) on Sept. 27. The following week they are in Oklahoma City, Missouri comes to St. Louis for the Oct. 11 dedicatory date and is followed, tentatively, a week later, by North Central College of Naperville, Ill. This game, Coach Walsh states, was scheduled as a sort of "breather" as the Arkansas Aggies, part of the same team, are played at Jonesboro on the night of the following Saturday. This date is not certain as yet.

Rolla opens the month of November here with a game on the first of the month and, on the 8th, Loyola of Chicago, is host to the Billikens. On November 15, Loyola of New Orleans comes for the first of a home-and-home series and the grand finale, with the Washington team, is booked for Thanksgiving day.

GAZELLE CHOSEN GRID CAPTAIN BY ST. LOUIS U.

St. Louis University's 172-pound half-back of Leland, Miss., was elected to captain the 1930 Billiken varsity squad, at the annual banquet of the freshman and varsity squads held at the Missouri Athletic Association last night. Gazelle has won a letter at his position for the past two years and is at present a junior in the Dental School of St. Louis U.

The election of the captain came as a climax of the program of the banquet of the Freshman and Varsity, prominent member of the Billiken athletic board, was the toastmaster. Two ballots were cast by the captain. Each letterman was allowed a vote for his choice on the first ballot and the two men receiving the highest number of votes were the nominees for the captaincy. Charley McKinney, the Billie's quarterback, was the runner-up to Gazelle in the balloting.

Gazelle has been one of the hardest hitting backs on the Billiken squad since his freshman days. He has played in all but one game of the Billiken football. Starting as fullback while a member of the frosh he was shifted to quarterback during his first season of varsity play. He continued as a field general until the Billikens' second game of the season, with Georgetown, last fall when he was started as a halfback and remained in that position the rest of the season. He specializes at mudrunning and was one of the outstanding Billiken backs in their game with Washington U. last Thanksgiving day.

Kaiser and Terry Training for Bout

Tommy Sullivan, matchmaker for the Frederick St. Louis Post of the American Legion, last night announced that Jackie Kaiser, Springfield, Ill., fighter, and Corp. Billy Rothermel, rugged Jefferson Barracks fighter, will meet at next Tuesday night's professional boxing match at the Coliseum.

Lou Terry, South Side boxer, who meets Johnny Kaiser in the feature 10-round bout, engaged in his hardest workout of the week yesterday afternoon at the Knights of Columbus gymnasium in East St. Louis. He sparred with Ray Alford, East Side fighter, and John Emerick, local bantam.

Billy De Foe, St. Paul boxer, who will meet Chico Clermont, Mexican featherweight, in the 10-round semi-windup, boxed with Johnny Kaiser for four rounds.

Kaiser no longer is trying to lose weight.

Matchmaker Sullivan stated that Kurt Prenzel, German welterweight, will arrive Saturday and engage in his first workout in preparation for his 10-round battle with Jackie Horner.

RALSTONS WILL TRY TO CLINCH INDUSTRIAL BASKET TITLE FRIDAY

The second game of the series for the championship of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball League, between Ralstons and Loewe-Wiles, winners of the two divisions, will be played Friday night at the Armory, Grand and Market, at 9 o'clock. It is a two-out-of-three affair.

In the first game Ralstons had little difficulty in swamping their opponents, 45 to 14. The Loose-Wiles quintet was without the services of their star center and scoring ace, Stumhofer, who was forced out of the game by illness. Stumhofer expects to be in shape for Friday night's contest.

Another preliminary game between International Shoe and Laclede-Christy will be played at 9:45.

LAMONT OF LOYOLA JOINS JIMMY PHelan AS WASHINGTON COACH

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 19.—With the signing of Daniel J. Lamont, head coach of Loyola University at Chicago, as line coach, the University of Washington was virtually committed to him.

Lamont was proposed by Jimmy Phelan, recently named head coach at Washington. Lamont resigned his position at Loyola, where he had marked success in small conference circles.

Phelan informed Washington officials that he would leave Chicago Feb. 22 with his family for Seattle and that he would begin teaching practice Feb. 26. Lamont may not arrive here until after Phelan.

GOLDEN PRINCE TO BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION

By the Associated Press.
SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 19.—With the Agua Caliente Handicap, with $100,000 added, only about a month away, it was announced today that Golden Prince, co-favorite with Victorian for honors in the big racing event, will be sold Sunday at public auction.

Golden Prince, winner of last year's Crofton Handicap, now supplanting by the Agua Caliente Handicap, is owned by Abe Bartelstein of Chicago and Harry Unna, trainer for the stable. Unna brought the great runner from comparative obscurity to the climax that came with the winning of the 1929 Crofton. Golden Prince started off this season in nice shape, winning the $10,000 speed handicap of six turlooms Feb. 2. Golden Prince is a 6-year-old gelding by Golden Guinea and Round the World.

With Golden Prince in the sale will be included Sidney Grant, a young chestnut colt of much promise, and several other horses.

Unna declined to discuss the reason for the sale, but it was reported that he was considering retirement from racing and training.

Brown U. Professor Dies.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 19.—John Howard Appleton, 57 years old, professor emeritus of Brown University, is dead here. He had been associated with Brown University since his graduation from the school in 1857, and was the author of several chemistry text books.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Because of her "ardent attachment" for the motion picture star, Lew Cody, Capt. Wallace C. Ayer divorced his actress wife, Mae Ayer, in Kentucky. Ayer told St. Louis Court Justice Townley yesterday in his reply to her motion for alimony and counsel fees in a separation suit brought by the actress.

In his brief Ayer said the separation agreement existing between himself and his wife, which was terminated by the Kentucky divorce, contained a stipulation he would support her until such time as he learned she had been guilty of infidelity.

Evidence of such misconduct was said to be a photograph of Cody's dressing room door in Hollywood "on which were carved all kinds of wisecracks and endearing legends."

"In the center of this unusual autograph album," Capt. Ayer's deposition stated, "I was amazed to find this little contribution:

A W. O. L.

Man Ayer.

"This legend was obviously significant and hardly needs explanation. It indicated that the handsome Lew Cody was my wife's star and that she was A. W. O. L. that is, absent without leave from home.

I accused her of intimacies with Cody and she smiled.

"It's none of your business," she said.

Ayer alleged that it was not long after this that on a sudden trip to Hollywood he discovered his wife was wearing an expensive clothes and wearing jewelry valued at $25,000 which he had not given her. He said his wife appeared greatly disturbed when he told her Cody had married Mabel Normand.

He said she went to Hollywood in 1923 and did not return until Cody came east on his way to Europe. She demanded that Ayer send her to Europe and when he refused the separation agreement was signed. He said he met his wife in New York and that they lived together for some time before he married in 1921 in New York, Ky., his home town, where he says he later obtained the divorce.

Judge Townley reserved judgment.

Man Ayer.

"It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Take a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pine, add a pint of warm water, sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed mucous membranes as it is absorbed into the blood stream. It acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germs laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains its remarkable effectiveness.

Pine is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of crotonolide, in a refined, volatile form, and known as the "elixir of life." It is especially useful for incipient bronchial coughs and other severe coughs due to colds.

Do not accept a substitute for Pine. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief money refunded.

Act quickly.

SMALL MIXED CHANGES IN LOCAL STOCKS

National Candy Has Small Gain and Wagner Electric Shows Fractional Decline.

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Feb. 19.—National Candy International Shoe, Corne Mills, Sennitt Seed preference and Missouri Portland were unchanged in initial transactions today. The candy stock later showed higher and Shoe lower.

Consolidated Lead sold higher in small trade and Lands lower on Laclede-Christy closed 1 point lower and Mercantile-Common 1 higher.

In the bond section Houston Oil & brought better price.

Wagner Electric had a fraction. St. Louis Public Service common at 9 was off fractionally.

BOND MARKET FIRM BUT TRADE QUIETER

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The bond market was firm in a somewhat quiet session today. The decline in volume was largely due to the less active dealing in American Telephone convertible 4%, which soared to 160 and then sold off several points from that peak.

Fluctuations in the prime rails were small but the trend in this important group was toward the up side. Industrials were quiet and few important price variations developed.

Punta Allegre Sugar 7% moved down about 3½ points and Curaçao Dominican Sugar 7½ per cent certificates of deposit about a point.

United States Governments were steady. The Treasury financing for the month will involve caring for maturities of about $500,000,000, of which $404,000,000 is in the 8½ per cent certificates. The government has already retained $50,000,000, which amounts needed throughout the recent sale of Treasury bills, and part of the remainder is expected to be raised through issue of certificates.

On the basis of the current yield of Government paper and the 3.20 rate obtained on the last bill sale, it is believed probable that the new certificates will bear about 3½ per cent interest.

Industrial and Financial Briefs

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Member banks in the New York Federal Reserve District have received preliminary notice that the Treasury Department may shortly offer a new issue of Treasury certificates to be dated March 15.

The Batchelder, Snyder, Dorr & Doe has been formed through the merger of the Batchelder & Snyder Co., Arthur E. Dorr and the William A. Doe Co., Boston meat and food packing companies. The interest in the Arthur E. Dorr Co. held by National Stores, a New England chain grocery store system, has been sold to the company. Frosted Foods Co. Inc., a subsidiary of the General Foods Corporation, will have a controlling interest in the new organization.

S. Sloan Colt, a vice president of the National City Bank, has been elected a vice president of the Boston Trust Co.

A stockholders' protective committee for the Kofeler Radio Corporation, now in receivership, has been formed. Harry Moors, former Governor of New Jersey, is chairman. The Interstates Trust Co. of New York has been designated as depository.

The assets of the Temple Corp. of Chicago, manufacturers of radio receiving sets, have been purchased by a syndicate of business men for more than $1,000,000. Leonard C. Welling, president of the K. W. Radio Co., Inc., announced today the purchases includes the patents, good will, machinery, inventory, etc.

The United Gas Co. of Houston, Tex., has substantially increased its holdings in its three controlled companies through exchanges of stock just completed, it was announced today. It now owns 31 per cent of the common stock of Houston Gulf Gas Co., an increase of 27 per cent since Nov. 15, and owns either directly or through Houston Gulf 99 per cent of the outstanding common stocks of Southern Gas Co. and Southern Gas Utilities, Inc.

The Kansas City Southern Rail- way, one of the first carriers to report the results of January operations, show gross earnings of $1,466,325, as reduced from $1,752,401 for January, 1929, and net after taxes of $329,785, compared to $169,165 for the like period a year ago.

INVESTMENTS AND LOANS AMOUNT TO $35,934,000,000

All Member Banks of Federal Reserve System Make Known Figures as of December 31, 1930.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Loans and investments of all bank members of the Federal Reserve system amounted to $35,934,000,000 on Dec. 31, the date of the last bank call, it was announced today by the Federal Reserve Board.

The amount was an increase of $20,000,000 since last Oct. 4 and an increase of $250,000,000 since

Dec. 31, 1929.

Total assets of the member banks amounted to $45,843,078,000.

Net demand deposits of all the banks on Dec. 31 were $19,757,

,000, which was an increase of $45,000,000 since Oct. 4 and a decrease of $147,000,000 for the year.

Capital and surplus of all member banks on Dec. 31 was $7,099,

,000 above the total of Oct. 4 and $707,000 above the total at the end of the preceding year.

Total deposits amounted to $38,

013,735,000, while time deposits to $13,233,481,000.

PRICES IRREGULAR ON CURB MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The curb market turned mildly reactionary in the last hour of trading today, after strenuous efforts by speculators for the Richard Whitney-led irregularities earlier in the session. Liquidation was in considerable volume throughout the day, and while several utilities and industrials reached new highs for the year, gains were not maintained, and upward progress was difficult.

Among the more active utilities, Electric Bond and Share, American Superpower and Niagara Hudson closed fractionally lower, the first named closing at 100, after dipping to 97 that level. American Gas and Electric lost 2 points to a new peak, and American and Foreign Power warrants more than 4, but the latter lost most of its gain.

A feature of the late dealings was a rally in some of the oils led by Vacuum.

Standard of Ohio and Humble each moved up a couple of points.

Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada Report.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The annual report of the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada shows new paid-for business for the year amounting to $212,200,000. This is 45 per cent of an increase over the preceding year.

The company four years ago wrote a billion dollars of assurance—the first Canadian life assurance company to do so. This year it shows a total of $2,401,237,000. This is over half a billion dollars of increase over last year.

The assets of the company stand at $563,000,000, an increase of $79,239,000.

NEW SECURITIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—A banking group is offering today an additional issue of $100,000,000 of interbank trust sinking fund 5 per cent bonds. Power Co. at 98 and accrued interest to yield over 8.10 per cent. The syndicate to consist of First National Bank & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., Alex Brown & Sons, J. E. Seaman & Co., and Morgan, Co. Inc. The amount of money Canada is offering a substantial amount of this issue.

CITY PLAYGROUNDS HELD INADEQUATE

Places Poorly Equipped, Park Association Says After Survey.

Only 34,000 of 160,000 white children between the ages of 5 and 15 in St. Louis public, parochial and private schools can be accommodated by supervised open-air playgrounds between June 15 and Sept. 1, it was disclosed today on completion of a survey by the Park and Playgrounds Association.

During this period supervised play is conducted on 29 municipal playgrounds, but during the school year, when only 14 supervised municipal playgrounds are maintained, only 10,000 children can be provided for. The playgrounds are declared to be poorly equipped.

"If the public school grounds on which play is supervised during the summer period were maintained in that way during the whole year, this would raise the adequacy of supervised play for the year to 64 percent," the report states.

"The supervised play space for Negro children is only 4.6 per cent adequate in summer months and half that during the school period. Complete statistics for 1929 on accidents and juvenile delinquency and their relation to playground adequacy for the 90 school districts show that where the play space adequacy percentage is high, the number of juvenile delinquents and accidents is low."

Juvenile delinquency has been reduced from 25 to 80 per cent in various large cities by the establishment of additional supervised play space."

Recommendations made in the report include: Increase in park and playground areas, improvement of swimming pools, acquisition of additional recreation centers for children and adults during winter, employment of more trained recreation leaders, co-operation of administration and recreation departments, improvement of baseball diamonds, larger and more modern service buildings for those using baseball diamonds and skating ponds, and additional play space adjacent to a majority of public schools.

Wise Mother

Here are the two husky young children of Mrs. W. S. McMahon, 500 Ohio Ave., St. Louis. Their mother's experience shows what can be done to keep children robust. She says: "Since I found out how good California Fig Syrup is, I have kept some in the house. It always helps my children to eat it. I give it for upsets or as a laxative or cold remedy."

When your child's breath is unpleasant; tongue is coated; or she has headache, bilious, feverish, without appetite or energy, give her a little California Fig Syrup. See how its gentle cleansing helps a child. Appetite, digestion and assimilation improve. Stomach and bowels are toned and strengthened.

The genuine always bears the word California. So look for that when buying. Seven million bottles used a year proves its merit!

Only thorough shampooing will remove this film . . . and let the sparkle, and rich, natural . . . color tones of the hair remain.

Ordinary washing fails to satisfactorily remove this film, because—it does not clean the hair properly.

Besides—the hair cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali, in ordinary soaps, soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why women, by the thousands, who value beautiful hair, are using Mulsified Cocoon Oil Shampoo. It cleanses so thoroughly, it is so mild and so pure, that it cannot possibly injure, no matter how often you use it.

You will notice the difference in the appearance of your hair the very first time you use Mulsified, for it will feel so delightfully clean, and be soft, silky, and fresh-looking.

Try a Mulsified "Beauty Shampoo" and just see how quickly it is done. See how easy your hair is to manage. See how lovely and alluring it will look. See it sparkle—with new life, gloss and luster.

The Pets of the White House Birds, and Dogs, and Cats Arrive

By Mrs. Calvin Coolidge

The Life and Loves of the Lovely JEAN NASH

A Conflict in Engagements With A Persistent Canadian Winning Out When Slower English Suitor Is Left Waiting.

By ARTHUR STRAWN.

THE next pets to arrive, after Nip and Tuck, came unannounced in the shape of two cowering little kittens, one a Tiger and the other a jet black without a touch of color in its sleek coat. Tiger was born to a Wanderer and Blacky, in common with most cats, was a natural born hunter. Tiger's first escapade took him to the Nations Building down near the Lincoln Memorial. Perhaps he was trying to "join the Navy and see the world through a periscope." We went on the alert to broadcast his disappearance, giving a detailed description of him and the following morning a guard discovered him strutting about in one of the corridors, recognized him, and returned our wandering down to see Jean.

Sifton's parents had given their consent to the proposed marriage, but they wanted to look the girl over to make certain that their son was making no mistake. Accordingly, they invited Jean to visit them at Assiniboine Lodge, their estate on the St. Lawrence River. Sir Clifford's fortune was then estimated at more than $25,000,000, but in spite of this enormous wealth and the possession of everything money could buy, the older Siftons were a very austere couple, thorough Canadian Methodists of rigidly simple personal tastes and habits.

Jean's visit with them turned out to be something of a trial, as she found herself subjected to a regimen in which she was in no way accustomed. For instance, all members of the family appeared fully dressed for breakfast at 4 o'clock each morning, a barbarous custom, according to their luxury-loving young guest. After breakfast a half-hour was devoted to a complete church service performed under the auspices of the master of the house. Whenever there was a fitting opportunity, and sometimes when there wasn't, Mrs. Sifton would lecture her future daughter-in-law on various subjects pertaining to housekeeping and cooking, emphasizing the beauties of economy and other domestic virtues.

JEAN didn't enjoy these discussions; she endured them, but the limit was reached one evening when Jean made her appearance at the Sifton table dinner in a new evening gown which Jean considered particularly winning. Jean took her seat and then Mrs. Sifton, with a pained expression on her face, inspected Jean very carefully through her glasses:

"Are you dressed, my dear?" Mrs. Sifton unkindly asked. "I am afraid you will catch cold."

By the time Jean recovered from this mortifying experience she had concluded that however much she might enjoy living with Winfield Sifton, her future husband would be for her quite impossible.

The American Child Health Association will gladly assist parents in their study of child health. Helpful literature may be secured at their headquarters and lists of lectures and child study groups are available.

So there are many helping hands coming along various pathways to educate parents in child health and enabling them to co-operate with the school in laying the necessary strong foundation of perfect mental and physical health for the education of the school child.

Careful attention is given to the proper lighting of the school room, the location of charts and blackboards, and every effort is made to conserve the vision of the school child. How about the home work study? Is your child able to do this without eye strain?

Parents may realize how essential health is to education but they do not appreciate the necessity of carefully guarding every pathway to health. These are numerous and are not so well known to all parents, hence the necessity of parental study.

Many of the Parent-Teachers Associations are devoting time to child health study and many parents are learning themselves to group for child health study.

Rub a little cream into the new black kid suede gloves and they will not crack. They will have a fine gloss and wear longer.

He was determined to get Jean.

How Winning Radio Bridge Hinged on Overtaking Trick

THE radio bridge audience gleaned some good tips on expert play from the fourteenth of Milton C. Work's Radio Bridge Games broadcast yesterday from Station KSD, with Mrs. E. L. Bradbury of Dallas, Tex., Miss Marguerite Cohn of Fort Smith, Ark.; Earl S. Cobey of Rochester, N. Y., and Gratz M. Scott of New York City as the winning players.

The hands were: Mr. Scott, Dealer, South; Spades Q, 10, 4; Hearts, K, 8; Diamonds, A, K, 6; Clubs, K, J, 2; Mr. Cobey, West; Spades 9, 6, 5, 3; Hearts, Q, 10, 9; Diamonds, Q, 10, 3, 2; Clubs, 7, 5; Mrs. Bradbury, North; Spades K, 7; Hearts, J, 4; Diamonds, J, 9, 7, 6; Clubs, Q, 10, 9, 8, 5; Miss Scott, East; Spades 8, 6, 3, 2; Hearts, 8, 7, 5, 2; Diamonds, 2; Clubs, A, 4, 2.

The only bid was the opening declaration of one No Trump by Mr. Scott, Dealer, South, which all passed. Miss Cohn, East, would have liked to have made a lead-directing bid to keep her partner from opening Diamonds. When she only a singleton in that suit, she appreciated that West was likely to be down in it and lead it, and that she would be unable to help establish it; but she had no suit in which a bid would have been justified.

So with South as Declarer at one No Trump, Mr. Cobey, West made the original lead of the Trey of Diamonds, the fourth-best of the stronger of his two long suits. Mrs. Bradbury spread her hand for Dummy, and Mr. Scott, Declarer, was surprised to find that he had four cards in Dummy's hand, including the lead of the leader's suit. He knew the lead was fourth-best, and subtracting three from eleven and finding the remainder to be eight, he realized that Miss Cohn, East, could have no Diamond higher than the Trey, because he himself in his two hands had the entire eight that the lead had shown were not in the hand of the leader. By the same reasoning, Declarer could tell that the leader's remaining Diamonds were the Queen, 10, and 8.

P LANNING his campaign for making his first play, Declarer counted six sure tricks: one Spade, two Hearts and three Diamonds. If the adverse Ace of Clubs were part of a three-card suit, not more than two Clubs could be won unless Dummy's long Clubs were established and an entry made in that hand to cash them. The King of Spades was not an assured entry, because East did not have the Ace; so Declarer decided to make up an entry in Dummy's Diamonds as he needed three Clubs for game.

Therefore to the first trick Declarer played Dummy's 6 of Diamonds. Miss Cohn, East, played the Deuce, and Declarer, South, won with the Ace, making Dummy's Jack a sure entry.

To trick two Declarer led the King of Clubs; West played the 5; Dummy the 4; East the Trey. Miss Cohn, East, responded by holding up her Ace of Clubs and, in the third round she could keep Dummy from running Dummy's King of Clubs. She knew that Dummy's King of Spades was not an entry, and hoped that her partner could prevent an entry in Diamonds.

Declarer continued Clubs, leading the Jack. West played the 7; Dummy the Queen from her sequence, hoping to dislodge the Ace who round sooner by making East believe that the closed hand had more Clubs. Mrs. Cohn, however, was not deceived by the subterfuge. She played the 6. Declarer then led the 10 of Clubs from Dummy; East played the Ace; closed hand the Deuce, and West discarded the Trey of Spades.

To trick five Miss Cohn, East, led the Trey of Hearts. Mr. Scott, Declarer, had his game won, whether he won or lost this trick; his best chance for an extra trick seemed to be a play of Dummy from South, hoping that East had the Queen of Hearts. So South played the 5 of Hearts; West won with the Queen; Dummy played the 4. West returned the suit, leading the 10 of Hearts. Dummy played the Jack; East the Deuce; South, Declarer, the King.

D ECLARER then led his 5 of Diamonds. He could mark West's position, but he must lose one unless he could catch West napping and induce him to play a small Diamond on this trick. In that case he might shut out an adverse Diamond. But Mr. Cobey could also place all the Diamonds, and knew his Queen of Diamonds would die unless he played it on this trick. Accordingly he did. Dummy played the 7; and East was called upon to make a difficult discard. She knew that one more Heart lead would establish two Hearts in her hand, to which her Ace of Spades was her only entry. But she also knew that Declarer had the Ace of Hearts and that if Hearts were led, Declarer would make five tricks. The Heart, two Diamonds and a Club, . . . which with the four tricks already made would ensure his game. Miss Cohn saw that a Spade had offered the only chance to save game; should her partner happen to have the Queen and another Spade, the lead of the Queen through Dummy's King would produce two tricks, which with the three East and West already had, would stop game. Miss Cohn therefore asked for a Spade by discarding the 5 of Hearts.

To trick eight West, noting his partner's discard, and realizing it was possible that she had the Ace and Queen of Spades, led his best Spade, the 9. Dummy played the 7, and East, appreciating that South had the Queen, played her Ace. She knew her partner would have led the Queen if he had had it. Had East played her Jack, Declarer would have won with the Queen and then have discarded his two losing Spades on Dummy's Clubs. Declarer played the 4 of Spades, then placed his hand above his head and discarded the remainder of the tricks, which adversaries conceded. Declarer scored 30 for tricks. There was no honor score, as Aces were easy.

Funny Dear, What Love Can Do, Beneath This Almond Tree, Villa Maria

Old Man River, Villa Maria

A Little Kiss Each Morning

A Gold Medal Fast Freight program over KSD at 7:30, will begin at 7 o'clock.

Elise Baker, contralto, who will be the soloist on the Mobile Hour over KSD at 7:30, has a reputation for being a "good trouper." She once made a concert tour in a wheel chair rather than disappoint thousands who had heard her sing on records and wanted to see her in person.

Miss Baker is to sing Tchaikowsky's "Only Ye Who Have Yearned" and "Cradle Song" of Brahms.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Stocks suffered one of the sharpest breaks
since the first of the year today, as heavy selling for both long and short accounts swept into the market in the last hour of trading,
driving active shares generally down two to 13 points. Operators for the rise made a few efforts to turn the list upward during the day, but met with increased offerings on rallies and finally withdrew.

Sales in the last 90 minutes exceeded 1,100,000 shares, sending the total sales for the session up to 3,661,070.

The market has found progress difficult since the first of the month, after the sharp upturn in late January, and there has been a growing feeling in conservative circles that the improvement in business has been thoroughly disillus-ioned for the time being.

A slight break in speculative activity yesterday was a blow to speculative confidence, and further declines in the Chicago Pit today resulted in renewed unsettled in the share markets.

Profit-Taking Advocated.

Several commission houses have been advocating the taking of profits in preparations for a technical reaction for more than a week, and although bulls have continued to lift individual shares higher, speculative sentiment has grown highly uncertain. While confidence in the ability of leading shares to show further appreciation over the next several months remains unimpaired, market observers are weary to the opinion that tangible evidence of marked business recovery must appear before the upward trend can be resumed.

Credit conditions were scarcely a factor in the trend of the market. Call money held at 4½ per cent at the loan post, but was in ample supply.

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending Feb. 13 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board after close of market at $5,494,000, representing an increase of $44,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

Analysis of the report shows
loans for own account increased $28,000,000, loans for account of out-of-town banks decreased $2, 000,000, and loans for account of others increased $9,000,000.

Rails Are Heavy.

Selling of the rails was particularly heavy. The January earnings reports are to appear in the next few days. The report yesterday of car loadings for the first week of the year, shows a fair-sized decline.
New York Central lost 7 points,
and Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Ohio, Wabash, Delaware and Hudson and Lackawanna, 5 to 6.

National Lead closed 12 points lower despite the declaration of a $1 extra dividend. Such leading issues as American Can, American Telephones, John Marsteller, Westinghouse Electric, U. S. Steel,
American Tobacco and Eastern Kodak closed off about 4 to 7 points.

The wheat market continued to feel the influence of large stocks abroad. Reports of Russian exports, weakness of foreign markets and favorable weather over the winter wheat area, combined to send futures to new low levels for the season, although the decline was less drastic than yesterday, closing prices showing losses of about 1½ cents. Corn on the other hand, rallied slightly, reflecting smaller receipts and better demand. Cotton futures closed steady.

Stock indices, with other tables and market news, will be found on Pages 100, 102 and 103.
